

Simon is a highly experienced Health, Safety & Security professional with over 30 years' experience in culturally diverse environments, including the NHS.

Previously Head of Security at a large acute hospital Trust and security specialist in an NHS Mental Health Trust, Simon brings his specialist knowledge and experience to client organisations whose public-facing staff may encounter vulnerable individuals in addition to the daily challenges of providing high-quality customer service.

Simon is a member of IOSH with a specialist interest in reducing the risks of workplace violence and aggression.