

Jayne is the Head of Security and Site Services at Guy's & St Thomas' NHS Foundation Trust, one of the UK's oldest and largest hospitals. She has extensive strategic and operational experience in healthcare security and emphasises partnership building and community collaboration within the security sector.

A champion of inclusion, Jayne founded the Security Commonwealth Equality, Diversity & Inclusivity (EDI) network group in 2021, introducing the first Security sector EDI award at the Outstanding Security Performance Awards (OSPAs).

She previously served as President of the National Association for Healthcare Security (NAHS) and sits on several healthcare security advisory channels and strategic forums as well as advising organisations such as the International Foundation for Protection Officers. Previously, she also chaired the Security Commonwealth (SyCOM).

Jayne's credentials include being a Fellow of the Security Institute (FSyl), an NHS Accredited Security Management Specialist (ASMS), an Armed Forces Network Service Champion, and a member of the Association of Security Consultants (ASC).